3	Rokosan	Adam Szoke	Sales Manager	Chemical	We are a Slovak producer of complex nutrition for various kinds and types of plants with more than 20 years of tradition. Our products are certified for use in organic agricultural production as organic fertilizers. We sell and distribute plant nutrition for wholesales and retails in Europe, Africa, Asia. Besides the domestic market we aim our activities at markets of neighboring states delivering selected types of products and/or in cooperation with potential business partners we test the selected types of fertilizers in the form of field trials. We provide comprehensive utilization of selected types of products of secondary animal production, which we process into organic and organic-mineral fertilizers. Rokosan, thanks to its unique technology, is able to produce fertilizers from poultry feathers. Poultry feathers are generated as by-product in large quantities by the poultry industry and are very hazardous for the natural environment. The reason is their poor digestibility and their potential as a source of microbiological pathogens. about renewable, stable, unlimited and natural source for further processing into organic-mineral fertilizers. Country with the production of animal waste (feathers, cattle horns and hooves) could be self-sufficient in the production of liquid fertilizers thanks to our technology. Food security would be ensured through its own bio-food production. The added value would be the export of fertilizer overproduction. The production of amino-acid fertilizers will ensure the growth of job opportunities and agricultural production.	An ideal partner would be a company with a distribution network, or a company that trades with organic or chemical fertilizers and is looking for innovation.	rokosan.com
